

Football Minds Claim

A football-focused mental health awareness and damages claims business for players, former players, and football families affected by legal pressure and bad advice.

The problem

Footballers are trained to cope with pressure on the pitch, not years of legal stress, inflated fees, missed strategic advice, and public courtroom theatre. The fallout can include mental strain, damaged confidence, family pressure, reputational harm, and missed business opportunity.

The proposition

Football Minds Claim combines awareness, evidence building, and damages recovery. It helps footballers understand the hidden injury caused by legal and advisory failure, document that harm properly, and pursue accountability where appropriate.

1. Awareness

Short videos, case studies, supporter-led conversations, and player education showing how legal abuse, bad advice, and delay tactics can affect mental health, sleep, family life, and post-career stability.

2. Case support

Structured evidence packs: chronology, invoices, advice failures, opportunity loss, family impact, therapist or GP records where available, and a clear view of what damage flowed from the conduct.

3. Damages pathway

Referral into trusted claims routes for professional negligence, economic loss, reputational harm, and stress-related injury where the evidence supports it - with a football-first presentation of the facts.

Why it matters

How the business works

A practical model combining player protection, case development, and public credibility.

Who it serves

Current players

Players distracted or distressed by disputes, bad advice, or legal pressure.

Former players

Ex-pros dealing with historical advice failures, tax scheme fallout, broken partnerships, or lost assets.

What clients receive

Mental health lens: plain-English recognition of stress and hidden injury.

Claim readiness: a tight damages narrative and evidence map.

Trusted expert network: partner lawyers, clinicians, and subject-matter advisers.

Commercial model

Fixed-fee initial review for case triage and evidence capture.

Premium support packages for chronology building and damages preparation.

Partner referrals into suitable legal and therapeutic pathways.

Why this wins

Most services split the problem into separate silos. Football Minds Claim connects the human impact, the evidence trail, and the commercial/legal recovery route in one football-specific platform - making it easier for players to act before the damage becomes permanent.

Launch idea

Pilot with 3-5 case reviews, one campaign partner, and a compact adviser network.

Positioning line: When the system harms footballers off the pitch, someone should help them recover.
