

A portrait of Tracey Crouch, a British politician, speaking at a podium. She has short brown hair and is wearing a dark jacket. The background is a blue screen with the word "Parliament" visible in white text.

Tracey Crouch

British politician

review by the cases of Whyteleafe FC and Abingdon Town, both of which were forced to withdraw from their respective leagues due to being unable to reach agreements with a Singapore based property developer, Irama Sport, which had acquired their respective grounds.

There is no logical reason for a foreign property development company to acquire the land on which lower league football clubs are based other than to seek to develop them. Certainly, it is unlikely they will obtain a financial return from the clubs alone. The